EXTENSIVE FIRE DAMAGE

A fire of unknown origin almost totally destroyed the trailer owned by Robert Larson at 702 West st. in Glade Township Saturday. Warren Borough and North Warren firemen were called to the scene as Glade firemen were participating in the search for the lost boy at Chapman Dam. The Larsons were not at home and the cause of the fire has not yet been determined. (Photo by Lester)

DAMAGE TOTALS $3,000

Damage to this car amounted to $2,000 in a five-car chain reaction accident at 12:09 p.m. Saturday on Pennsylvania ave. east. Gary L. Sitler, 25, of 103 N. Carver st., had stopped behind three other vehicles as they waited for a vehicle in the opposite lane to turn left. Theodore Grela, 58, of RD3, Franklin, driving a truck, failed to stop striking the Sitler vehicle, knocking it into the vehicle stopped by John Powley, 57, of 224 Main st., it into Michael Edward Brown, 21, of 387 Wheaton rd., Hampton, Va. and it into Grant Childs, 59, of RD1A, Russell. No injuries were reported by Officer James P. Nelson who investigated. Total damage was estimated at $3,000 with no damage to the Childs vehicle. (Photo by Lester)

Prison

A prison spokesman said each member of the specially-trained emergency squad was armed with a baton, a small tear gas canister and wore a helmet. The leaders of the squad carried a canister of chemical riot gas, but neither the tear gas, riot gas nor nightsticks were used, the spokesman said.

The Pakistan government has alleged, however, that India is attacking in the eastern province to help the Mukhti Bahini, the East Pakistan liberation army.

Mrs. Gandhi opposed any move to bring the crisis before the United Nations Security council.

"Referring the issue to the Security Council would neither help ease the situation, nor materially affect it," she told a rally Sunday in Jaipur, after visiting troops on the East Pakistan border for the second straight day.

"Pakistan has committed aggression against us three times in the past," she was quoted as saying in Indian news reports in a reference to the first India-Pakistan conflict in 1948 and again in 1965.

"It is clear we did not attack Pakistan. But what did the Security Council do to help us against aggression?" she asked. "It did not even say who the aggressor was."

The demands issued by the six included no reprisals for at tempting to escape and better medical care.

Other inmates in the hospital ward did not participate in the attempted break, Wainwright said, and there were no other disturbances reported in the 3,000-man prison 40 miles southwest of Jacksonville.

Dugger said the six inmates appeared to be suffering from stomach disorders when they surrendered and were being kept in the hospital for observation.

Prison officials said the six prisoners who tried to escape were all from Florida and were serving sentences ranging from three years to life. Four were in the hospital for treatment for hepatitis, one was being tested for epilepsy and the sixth was suffering from anemia.

The prison's former superintendent was demoted and several guards were disciplined in a shakeup after that disturbance.</p

Hijacked TWA Jet Returns To Miami

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Writer
A Trans World Airlines jet, hijacked to Cuba by three suspected police killers, returned to Miami Sunday and a stewardess said she lied at knifepoint to "talk them out of taking us to Africa."

The Boeing 727 was commanded early Saturday at the Albuquerque, N.M., airport by three black men charged with gunning down a New Mexico state trooper.

"I was concerned that someone was going to die," said Capt. John McGhee. "These men boarded in a violent, agitated manner and were obviously ready to commit murder."

McGhee convinced the hijackers that he needed a refueling stop and, after the fugitives refused to go to Atlanta or Miami, the jet plane touched down at Tampa, Fla.

The 40 passengers on the scheduled Phoenix-Albuquerque-Chicago-Washington flight were allowed to deplane at Tampa while the crew of six was forced to continue to Havana.

Stewardess Betty Caubre said she convinced "their leader that this airplane couldn't fly all the way to Africa. I lied, telling them I had been to Cuba twice and how nice they would be treated there."

Ann Harrell, another air hostess in the Kansas City-based TWA crew, said one of the men confessed to shooting New Mexico trooper Robert Rosenblom when the officer made a routine stop of their vehicle Nov. 8 on Interstate 40 near Albuquerque.

"The smallest one, his name was Michael but had been changed to the African name Macha, said he killed the officer," said Miss Harrell.

Miss Caubre said she sat with the trio's obvious leader, who identified himself as "Antoine." The stewardess said he claimed to have graduated from the University of California at Berkeley.

"He said he had been teaching school in southern California," she said. "They all claimed to have had at least two years of college. All of them emphasized their devotion to the Republic of New Africa movement."

The organization, established in Detroit in 1968, is dedicated to establishing a separate black

Money Crisis Deadlock

Appears To Be Easing

ROME (AP) — The United States and its major overseas trading partners meet here Monday amid signs that the deadlock of nearly four months in their worst monetary crisis since World War II may be easing.

U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and finance ministers of the non-Communist world's richest nations, the Group of Ten, will be making their final attempt this year to agree on what the once almighty dollar, and the other currencies financing their trade, are really worth.

Agreement is crucial in the effort to avert the kind of trade war that helped touch off the depression of the 1930s.

Connally said before arriving late Saturday night he was "very hopeful that progress can be made" here.

It was one of the Connally's most optimistic statements since President Nixon brought on the crisis Aug. 15 by cutting the link between the dollar and gold, the backbone of the world's monetary and trade system for 37 years.

Behind the scenes there were reports from Washington that Nixon is anxious to speed up the building of a new, more stable

Seven Killed

In Texas Plane Crash

RUSK, Tex. (AP) — Seven Colorado residents were killed Sunday when their plane crashed in a heavily wooded area 15 miles south of this east Texas city.

Officers identified the dead as Emanuel Charles Boxberger, 40; his wife, Frances Ellen Boxberger, 35; their two daughters, Kathy, 15, and Kris, 17; their son, William, 10; and Robert Howard Solley, 54, and his wife, Gladys Marie, 47, all of Fort Collins, Colo.

Investigators of the Texas Highway Patrol said the plane had taken off from a small airfield, the Sessions Airport, near the village of Sweet Union, to return to Fort Collins. The crash occurred 4½ miles from the runway.

Land Use Policies

Much concern is being shown throughout the nation presently over the accelerated rate at which prime farm lands are being converted to industrial sites, business locations, and subdivisions. A problem lacking, to some extent, a need for local consideration.

And yet if we view the path of progress over the past few years in the Warren community it can be noted that many acres of prime farm land, which is far from being abundant in our mountainous countryside, have been withdrawn from production in favor of developments which place a higher value on the land than can be realized through farm or truck operations.

It is debatable as to whether or not this price we are paying in the name of progress is to the best long run interests of the community, or, as some agriculturists claim, a loss we will eventually regret. And considering the fact that while we face the possibility of an exploding population—our highest producing farm lands amount to no more than 76 million acres according to the Soil Conservation Service—there is a basis of fact in their pronouncements.

Yet it is difficult to find fault with the landowner who sells off productive lands for non-productive purposes. Rising taxes which make it difficult to have agricultural uses of the land prove profitable, plus the incentive to realize a quick profit without the risks and efforts involved in the production processes, provide logical reasons for any such decisions.

So once again we come face to face with the provision of the state constitution which prohibits preferential tax relief for those who would otherwise direct the use of their lands to what appears to be in the public's interest. Lands which could be kept open for the production of food products, timber production, as a safeguard to our water supply, and as recreation lands open to the public, are being integrated into the "urban system" due to the lack of such tax relief.

It would seem the time is at hand for a fact-based decision as to what course our land use policies should follow in the upcoming years. If present land use policies are creating a detrimental situation, we should know about it. And if a change is needed in these policies, it should be made.

WASHINGTON—A secret Senate study charges that President Nixon is sabotaging his own Phase II economic goals by his favoritism to the oil moguls.

The blistering study, entitled "Phase II and the Administration's Oil Policies," was prepared by Sen. William Proxmire's staff in preparation for hearings in January.

In terse prose, it details why motorists are scalped an extra 5 cents a gallon at the pump and why service station operators are caught in a financial squeeze.

The beneficiaries are the same petroleum potentates who fill'er-up for Nixon whenever he needs campaign contributions.

"The Administration's oil policies are working against the goals of Phase II," declares the report. It cites the oil import quotas, which force the consumers to pay an additional, unwarranted $1.50 a barrel for imported oil.

The quotas "can be changed or abolished with a stroke of the President's pen," points out the study. Here are other highlights from the secret document:

OIL BENEFITS

"The major oil companies receive billions of dollars of subsidies from the oil import quota program, which they use to pay the federal government high bonuses for the right to drill on federal offshore lands."

"The major oil companies are using their gigantic tax-free cash flow to buy into other industries, particularly competing energy industries and petrochemicals. This ... probably violates our antitrust laws, although the Justice Department has failed to act."

"Although a Senate investigation has shown that both cut-rate and brand-name gas are basically the same, the brand-name firms are gradually grinding out the cut-rate companies with White House assistance. 'The major oil companies have enormous tax advantages....'"

"In order to maintain the traditional 2 cents to 5 cents a gallon difference between the majors' and the independents' price of gasoline, the independents must maintain the present benefits they get from the oil import quota program."

"The fact that the major oil companies control the pipelines severely limits the ability of other companies to transport their oil," the Proxmire papers charge. "The Justice Department has failed to act and apparently will permit the same apparent violation of the anti-trust laws to occur in the ownership of the trans-Alaska pipeline."

"While the ordinary taxpayer pays around 20 per cent of his wages in taxes, the rich oil companies 'paid an average of 8.7 per cent of their income in taxes in 1970,'" says the study.

$2 BILLION SAVING?

The study recommends tightening the screws on the oil firms enough to "save the American taxpayer over $2 billion in lost revenue." Some reformers are so disgusted with the greed of the oil barons, it adds, that they argue "we ought not give the oil industry any tax subsidies."

Footnote: The oil industry's champion on Capitol Hill is Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, son of the late Kingfish, heir of the Long political dynasty of Louisiana, and partner in a number of oil wells. At a secret session of his committee, he greased through a measure which would give Big Oil, alone among U.S. industries, a 7 per cent tax investment loophole in the new tax measure. Oil rigs built here and used overseas would qualify for the tax credit. The Senate, whose distinguished inhabitants have also been suckled by the big oil contributors, voted 58-38 for Long's latest oil loophole.

ARMY CRACKDOWN

Throughout the Army, the old standards of spit and polish have been ignored by GIs. Now, on orders from Gen. William Westmoreland, the Army chief, commanders all over the U.S. have begun a crackdown on everything from long hair to criminal conduct.

Unfortunately, many commanders have failed to make a clear distinction between real crime and minor expressions of GI individuality. For example, the First Army's Maj. Gen. R.G. Cicarella has issued a "Guide for Command Actions" which lumps together all offenses from haircuts to holdups.

"We cannot afford to have criminals roaming free in our units," warns Cicarella, without saying whether he means men with unpolished boots or rappers of WACs. Some military officers, bent for overly-zealous action, might use the Gude as a passbook for mass discipline.

Similarly sweeping standards inviting indiscriminate discipline have been adopted by other commands. In San Francisco's Presidio, for example, Col. John Fellows has circulated a memo calling for a vague drive to "purify our military community."

The Air Force, too, is putting new stress on discipline. At Travis Air Force Base, Calif., for instance, Brig. Gen. Ralph S. Saunders began a recent message with the solemn ultimatum:

"Law and order will prevail throughout this installation."

"The President is a weak man.....A weak man is a dangerous man!"

JIM BISHOP: REPORTER

Dining With The Walking Dead

The smile was rich and warm in the round pale face. Her husband, a Chinese named Charlie, scowled in silence. He didn't want this interview. "The police told me that if I talk to you," she said, "some kids might read it. Do you think it will help them?" I nodded. The tape was spinning like two hands with a ball of yarn.

"Well, I married Charlie four years ago. He was my pusher." She was pretty at age 31, a fatigued Kim Novak type. "He was selling three caps at $10 a crack. You know what three caps are? No? It's three to five per cent heroin and the rest is flour and sugar. It's so weak you need five of them for one pop and that's 50 bucks."

"How many times did you shoot yourself each day?" "Oh, six, I guess. That's 300 a day." "Impossible." "His habit ran to 300 a day when we got married. That comes to 600."

"How did you make it?" "It's a long lousy story. I started when I was 15. I ran away from home—I just couldn't stand my old man—and I ran to Reno and sat in a bus terminal. All a girl has to do is sit and shiver. Soon, a taxi driver gives her the eye. Is she hungry? Can he stake her to chow? You know."

"He asks if you would like to make some real money in a house. You say sure and from then on you're neck deep in drunken slobs. When I was young, I used to earn 10 bucks a trick. Well, 30 tricks a night and you have your 300. Right?"

HOOKED ON METHADONE

"You get caught sometimes. You get busted here and there. They have an arrest sheet on me covers five pages. Both sides."

"I don't like this baring-the-soul business. Neither does Charlie. We're both on methadone, but we're hooked on that too."

Charlie the Chinese grunted. He wanted to say something. His voice is like a barking cough. "My supplier gave me 100 three caps. I paid six apiece for them and sold them for 10. If I can find enough users every day, I make 400. I give him 180—wholesale price—and get 30 caps for myself. If I don't peddle the stuff, I have to rob a house at night. I don't like to steal, who would employ us?"

For the first time, Charlie the Chinese laughed. "Only on order," he said. "You want a suit of clothes 40 short with gray stripes, we pick it up for you at one-third the price. You need a steak, costume jewelry, a piece of carpet—." "How about a job?" He turned my way and I saw the drooping black mustache and the mocking shoe-button eyes. "Where?" he said softly.

"The Governor's Office fall within the realm of being under Democratic domination during this year 1971, the road for neither has been strewn with roses as many originally envisioned—and which initially brought predictions of a short legislative session this year.

Actually, the same is in store for legislative 1972 inasmuch as the Legislature's complexion will be of the same identical political mix as at present because legislative elections will not be held until next fall and a new Legislature will not take its seat until 1973.

The Governor's running battle with old line Democratic hard-hats--which predates by far his winning the gubernatorial election last year minus hierarchy endorsement--has only helped widen the legislative-executive breach.

At the moment it is perhaps epitomized by the feuding between the Shapp Administration and irritated and side-stepped Democratic county chairman on the patronage and consultation front.

Add to this His Excellency's "disagreements" with party old-timers and the Democratic mayors of populous Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and it isn't difficult to see where legislative Democrats representing those areas line up.

With the Democratic National Convention upcoming next year, and the in-fighting currently under way between Mr. Shapp and opposing Democratic ideologists over how the Pennsylvania delegation is to be handed, another stumbling block is growing between legislative and administration Democrats--which could produce an even greater stand-off on the legislative front next year.

IN THE NATION:

The Weekend Visitor

By Tom Wicker

NANTUCKET, Mass.—Friday was the kind of day to make a city dweller want to chuck it all and move back to nature. Whitecaps played like froth on Nantucket Sound and a fresh cold wind exhilarated the brain. The air was so clear that from the hills behind Dionis Beach a reasonably sharp eye could spot the white lighthouse on Great Point; and brilliant autumn sunlight fell with particular radiance on the browns and golds of the moors.

This was said to be a busier Thanksgiving holiday than usual on this summer island, but you couldn't easily tell it in Nantucket Town, where most of the stores are closed for the season and the usual beach-sitters on Main Street braved the cold only at midday.

Most houses are shuttered for the winter, and only a few small craft are afloat in the harbor; the scallopers go daily to their chilly labors, but most boats in the island fleet are stacked for the winter like cars on a ferry inside the boatyard warehouses—where in hibernation even the sleekest sailboats look lumpy and forlorn.

But the quiet streets, the light on the moors, the wind whistling in the eaves, the sense here—at least in winter—that the clangor urban world is far away, are siren lures, delusive and deceitful. The city dweller, hankering to make his weekend visit an exile, knows that in his bones.

Similarly sweeping standards inviting indiscriminate discipline have been adopted by other commands. In San Francisco's Presidio, for example, Col. John Fellows has circulated a memo calling for a vague drive to "purify our military community."

The Air Force, too, is putting new stress on discipline. At Travis Air Force Base, Calif., for instance, Brig. Gen. Ralph S. Saunders began a recent message with the solemn ultimatum:

"Law and order will prevail throughout this installation."

Even the act of fleeing—and even for no longer than a week or a month—the crowded streets, the noise, the smells, the annoyances of the city tends merely to transfer all these unpleasantries elsewhere. Nantucket with its summer traffic jams and its building boom and its law-and-order crackdowns on "hippies" is

Back To The Wars

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG -- Pennsylvania's lawmakers return to their legislative wars this week and ere they depart will have started the twelfth month of their 1971 session—a session which in the early days many projected would be a "short" session, some optimistically at the time pointing toward a "July at the latest" adjournment!

Well, July has come and gone, and so has August, September, October and now November -- and Pennsylvania's legislative warriors are still in session going into the final month of the year.

In the end they may not adjourn finally at all, preferring to just let the current session blend into the 1972 session convening January 4.

Actually, much remains to be done legislatively speaking, and it definitely will not be accomplished in the few weeks remaining in this year, what with time out for the upcoming Christmas holiday season.

Those earlier in the year prognosticating a fairly short session for 1971 were doing so mainly on the premise that inasmuch as the Legislature would be of the same political faith as that of His Excellency (Democratic, of course), legislative activity and liaison between the executive and legislative branches would be a shoo-in.

While in theory this would seem logical, it didn't quite turn out that way—in fact just about the opposite developed.

To his chagrin and irritation, Democratic Governor Milton Shapp found that in many instances he was encountering more opposition within his own party—both legislatively and politically speaking--than with opposition Republicans.

(Governor Shapp isn't the only chief executive to encounter such a situation by any stretch of the imagination; former Governor Shafer ran into the same thing on more than one occasion.)

In fact, it might be said in simple fact, had it not been for the votes provided by Republican lawmakers, His Excellency's record-smashing near-$3 billion spending proposal (necessitating the state income tax) would not have cleared the Legislature, at least on the basis of voting at the time.

Thus while both the Legislature and the Governor's Office fall within the realm of being under Democratic domination during this year 1971, the road for neither has been strewn with roses as many originally envisioned—and which initially brought predictions of a short legislative session this year.

Actually, the same is in store for legislative 1972 inasmuch as the Legislature's complexion will be of the same identical political mix as at present because legislative elections will not be held until next fall and a new Legislature will not take its seat until 1973.

The Governor's running battle with old line Democratic hard-hats--which predates by far his winning the gubernatorial election last year minus hierarchy endorsement--has only helped widen the legislative-executive breach.

At the moment it is perhaps epitomized by the feuding between the Shapp Administration and irritated and side-stepped Democratic county chairman on the patronage and consultation front.

Add to this His Excellency's "disagreements" with party old-timers and the Democratic mayors of populous Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and it isn't difficult to see where legislative Democrats representing those areas line up.

With the Democratic National Convention upcoming next year, and the in-fighting currently under way between Mr. Shapp and opposing Democratic ideologists over how the Pennsylvania delegation is to be handed, another stumbling block is growing between legislative and administration Democrats--which could produce an even greater stand-off on the legislative front next year.

forever in time, space and society, rather like one of those restored villages—Williamsburg or Old Salem—that in timeless unreality stand as monuments to the dead past.

As populations grow and seethe, as technology alters ethics and customs, and both government and the old disciplinary institutions—churches, corporations, universities—show themselves unable or unwilling to cope with the change, it is no wonder and scarcely reprehensible that this kind of escapism should be rampant. But the escapist dream of those who flee the city and barricade their communities probably will be, in the end, as deceitful as that of the weekend visitor in Nantucket.

It is not just that the escapist is likely to exchange one kind of threat for another—the crime and clangor of the city fading to the sterility of the suburb. Nor is it only that usually the suburbanite still is dependent on the city.

The real point is that there is, in fact, no place to hide from the kind of society we have created, or allowed to develop. The blacks and the poor didn't make that society; it put them in their present places. The city doesn't make modern life unpleasant; modern life is rendering the city intolerable. The suburb, the weekend house, the island in the sea or the woods can't be walled off against change and turmoil growing out of the kind of people we are and the kinds of lives we lead; they can only delude the hopeful.

It is good to be here on a glittering weekend, to hear the wind over the moors instead of the ominous mutter of the city. But it is not good enough; Nantucket Sound is not that wide; and the old American habit of picking up and moving on won't do any more. What wild, free place is left to go?

The Tinkling Fun Skies

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON — American Airlines is putting piano bars aboard its 747 jumbo jetliners. This gives it a momentary lead in the fierce competition among airlines to be Number One in sky fun, but the lead will not last long.

A competing airline is already flying tests with a 747 that has not only a piano bar, but also a zoo. There are still some problems to be solved with the zoo before regular scheduled flights begin. The pumas, for example, become irritable on a diet of airline food and have to be taken into the airport every other day to eat at the employees' cafeteria.

The reptiles, particularly the larger snakes, tend to wriggle free of their seat belts after the captain has put the seat-belt sign on, and consequently several have suffered bruised coils during rough landings.

On a test flight the other day, a crocodile that had escaped from the zoo turned up at the piano bar, inside the piano. Nobody would have known it was there if the piano player, who had had three martinis, had not made such a botch of "Down Among the Sheltering Palms," the crocodile's favorite song.

The crocodile's heckling cries inside the piano prompted a stewardess to lift the lid. Fortunately, U.S. sky marshals surrounded the piano immediately and seized the crocodile for questioning.

The airline industry will be watching closely to see if zoo flights succeed. Because they require a great deal of room, zoos would give the airlines an easy solution to the problem of filling up their 747s. Many airline executives, however, do not believe that Americans can be persuaded to go to the zoo any day except Sunday.

The social director of one of the nation's most amusing airlines believes that the typical air traveler wants something more sophisticated than zoos on Monday - through - Saturday flights.

For this reason he has had his airline experimenting with safari flights. On these, part of the airplane is turned into a jungle. Passengers who want more active fun than they can find at the piano bar stalk the animals.

No shooting is permitted, of course, because it would disturb passengers who are watching the movies. Instead, the hunters photograph their quarry with hand-held movie cameras.

There are many bugs to be worked out before this concept will be ready to be advertised. One day last week, for instance, there was an awkward scene

At Home Abroad: Heart Of Darkness

By Anthony Lewis

(c) N.Y. Times Service
SALISBURY, Rhodesia — It is a curious experience rereading E.M. Forster's "A Room With A View" in Africa. How remote it all seems in time and place and manner — the Edwardian English ladies seeing Florence, the curates, the English suburbs, the little social ripples. But it connects.

Forster's concern, as always really, was the undeveloped heart. His heroine, Lucy Honeychurch, is surrounded by characters who fear emotion and make her suppress it: her minister, her chaperone, her cousin, her stick-like fiance. Even her playing of Beethoven worries them with its passion. But in the end, the happy end, she breaks out and admits to herself that she loves a socially unsuitable young man. She is saved.

It has always been something of a mystery that Forster understood so well the cost to the human character of fearing passion. He had quite a cloistered life himself and only in middle age came to physical love, as it happens homosexual. But he knew that people are not whole when they deny their emotions, and that is what connects here and now.

The puritan strain in European Civilization somehow stands out, revealed, when surrounded by an alien culture. To see African men walk along the street holding hands because they are brothers or cousins is to recognize for a moment how much feeling we suppress.

In Southern Africa, white societies seem impelled to tighter and tighter restraints on themselves, perhaps as part of a siege psychology. The censor boards in South Africa and Rhodesia exclude works not only on political but on moral grounds. You cannot bring a phonograph record of "Hair" into Rhodesia.

E.M. Forster indeed applied his sense of the undeveloped heart to a colonial situation. That was "A Passage To India," one of the few novels that can be said to have had a profound political effect. It made the English feel guilty about colonialism and thus helped to bring on independence for India and other dependencies.

One contemporary writer has specifically considered the role of the divided human self, the clash between reason and emotion, in race relations. That is Laurens van Der Post, the South African writer.

Van Der Post argues that white men's fear and oppression of darker people reflects the repression of something inside themselves — the instinctive, the emotional, the dark Freudian unconscious. "We hate the native in ourselves," he writes. "We scorn and despise the night in which we have our being."

In "Venture To The Interior" in 1952 Van Der Post told what was on the surface a story of exploration and tragedy in remote mountainous areas of what is now Malawi. But he used "interior" in two senses: He was exploring himself as well as the mountains.

Along the way he mused on the limits of reason. In the last century and a half, he said, we have "talked more about reason" than ever before. But what is the result? "Cumulatively and collectively, in the grand total of all our individual lives, we have produced more unreason, bigger and fiercer wars, than any other age in history...

"Has there ever been an age that has done worse things than this one, with its class hatreds, race hatreds, color prejudices, world wars and concentration camps? Has there been another age that, knowing so clearly the right things to do, has so consistently done the wrong ones?"

His unhappy observation is certainly no less true now than when he wrote, 20 years ago. Since then, to give just a few examples, the world has seen the cost of hate and fear along lines of race and religion in Cyprus, Nigeria, Ireland and the Indian subcontinent.

As those examples indicate, violent expression of racial feelings is hardly a monopoly of white men. Nor is Van Der Post so foolish as to suggest that. He had personal cause not to. He was in a Japanese prison camp during World War Two, and he has said that he saw on the faces of the brutal prison guards, an expression that he finally recognized as similar to some he had seen on his fellow South Africans: in tormenting or killing others they were trying to kill something in themselves.

Race is too complicated a subject for any amateur to try to understand it through a single theory. But the Forsterian insight does give us some of the truth about life in Southern Africa: so long as men suppress part of themselves, they will be less than human. Or turned about: so long as they diminish the humanity of others, they will be diminished themselves; they will be less than whole.

SENATE ACTIVITIES

Tax Reductions

Legislation recently introduced attempts to correct some of the inequities in our tax system, focusing especially on the single and the middle income taxpayer who often bear an unproportionate burden. In addition, legislation has been proposed which would offer generous tax allowances for pollution abatement control equipment. Since pollution control equipment is required by law, it seems natural to offer tax allowances for such equipment providing incentives for even broader environmental participation. This incentive would be particularly effective for anti-pollution mine safety devices. One more step in this direction would be to provide tax credit to every business expanding its work force, thereby generating new tax revenues by the increase in employment. Changing our tax structure may be a lengthy process, but when implemented, will spread the tax burden more evenly.

SETS STAGE FOR ORANGE BOWL

Crimson Tide Turns Back Auburn

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's going to be another college football Game of the Decade this season.

It's set for the night of Jan. 1 in Miami's Orange Bowl with mighty Nebraska returning to the site where it won its 1970 national championship to defend it against Alabama.

Nebraska and Alabama, two of the five unbeaten teams in the country, were rated first and third in last week's Associated Press poll and undoubtedly will rate 1-2 this week in view of Nebraska's 35-31 victory over runner-up Oklahoma on Thanksgiving Day and Alabama's 31-7 mauling Saturday of previously unbeaten Auburn.

"We felt all along we picked the right two teams," said Bill Ward, chairman of the Orange bowl selection committee which invited Nebraska and Alabama a week ago, "but I do feel kinda lucky about the way things turned out."

"It was the biggest gamble we've taken in many years," echoed Earnie Seiler, executive vice president of the Orange Bowl. "I was relieved when Nebraska won, and Alabama just was the frosting on the cake for a dream pairing."

That leaves the Sugar Bowl with a slightly rancid taste, although Oklahoma still has the nation's leading offense and Auburn boasts quarterback Pat Sullivan, the Heisman Trophy winner.

In other top games Saturday, ninth-ranked Arizona State battered Arizona 31-0, No. 10, Louisiana State ripped Tulane 36-7, 11th-ranked Tennessee rallied to beat Vanderbilt 19-7, No. 16 Houston walloped Utah 42-16, Army edged Navy 24-23, Florida State whipped Pitt 31-13, and Iowa State shot down San Diego State 48-31.

The Pacific Coast Athletic Association was to meet Sunday to name its representative to face Memphis State in the Pasadena Bowl. The choice was between San Jose State, a 55-10 winner over UC-Santa Barbara, and Long Beach State, which was upset by Texas-El Paso 38-32.

In a wild game between two also-rans, Florida trounced Miami of Florida 45-16, with John Reaves completing 33 of 50 passes for 348 yards and breaking Jim Plunkett's career pass yardage record. Reaves finished with 7,549, five more than Plunkett.

But Florida had to back off and let Miami score late in the game to get Reaves back on the field for the 13 yards he needed. And that drew furious criticism from Miami's Fran Curci, who said he "lost all respect for (Florida Coach) Doug Dickey as a coach and as a man."

Dickey, however, denied ordering his team to literally lie down on the field with 70 seconds remaining so Miami's John Hornbrook could run eight yards for a touchdown and get Reaves a shot at the record. "I was sorta disappointed it happened that way," Dickey said.

Alabama turned Johnny Musso and a blitzing defense loose on Auburn. Musso, back from the injured list, punched out 155 yards in 32 carries and scored twice while quarterback Terry Davis also ran for two touchdowns.

It was only 14-7 after three periods on Davis' two scores and a 31-yard option pass from Auburn's Harry Unger to Terry Beasley. But in the final quarter, Bill Davis booted a 41-yard field goal and Musso galloped across on runs of 12 and six yards, setting up the Orange Bowl's dream pairing and giving the Sugar Bowl a night-mare.

On the drive from the Alabama 22 to the Auburn 24 that set up the field goal, Musso reeled off clutch runs of 18, 12 and six yards to help the Crimson Tide overcome a clipping penalty.

But Florida had to back off and let Miami score late in the game to get Reaves back on the field for the 13 yards he needed. And that drew furious criticism from Miami's Fran Curci, who Auburn's Sullivan completed 14 of 27 passes for 121 yards, but failed to break the NCAA touchdown responsibility record he set at 71 two weeks ago.

"We took away those easy things they've been getting against everybody, including us last year," said Alabama's Bear Bryant. "We can start thinking about Nebraska now. I don't think we thought anything about Nebraska before the game. We thought about Auburn."

"I reminded our team at the half of the last two years when Sullivan pulled out games in the second half. I felt like to keep from losing we would have to have a sound kicking game and defensively we would have to keep from giving them anything cheap. If we did that, we'd have a chance of winning by controlling the ball and putting some points on the board. And we did just that."

The weekend also saw the firing of a second Southwest Conference coach. Baylor's Bill Beall got the axe after a 23-0 loss to Rice that saddled the Bears with a 1-9 record and made Beall 3-28 in his three seasons.

Gene Stallings of Texas A&M was canned Thursday following a 34-14 loss to Texas.

Redskins Aren't Conceding Yet

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two field goals by Curt Knight and Billy Kilmer's 27-yard touchdown pass to Roy Jefferson helped Washington to a 20-13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday and kept the Redskins in contention for the National Football League's National Conference Eastern title.

Washington boosted its record to 7-3-1, half a game behind the Dallas Cowboys, 8-3, in the two team Eastern battle, each with three games remaining.

The Redskins, who had won only 1 of their last five games, snapped out of an offensive slump, with 13 points in the second quarter including their first touchdown in nine quarters.

Ironically, the Redskins had to turn to quarterback Kilmer to fire their offense after Sonny Jurgens, starting his first game of the season, reinjured the left shoulder that had sidelined him most of the season.

March. Massachusetts looms as a repeater for the Yankee Conference title.

South Carolina is expected to be one of the strong independents. Villanova is not likely to duplicate its last season surge to the NCAA finals, largely because Howard Porter, the Wildcats' star, has graduated.

The Quakers again have forwards Bob Morse and Corky Calhoun, but a new coach in Chuck Daly, who took over when Dick Harter moved to Oregon.

Harvard appears to be the team to watch in the Ivy. The Crimson have back Floyd Lewis, Jim Brown, Marshall Sanders and Tom Musto from the team which won 11 of its final 13 games a year ago. In addition, the Cantabs have a promising sophomore in Tony Jenkins.

Temple and St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania likely will battle it out for the Middle-Atlantic Conference title and an NCAA berth in the MAC playoffs in Neither is Fordham likely to repeat its unexpected success of a year ago when the Rams compiled a 26-3 season and finished ninth in the final Associated Press poll of the year.

Penn State, Pitt, Holy Cross, Duquesne, Virginia Tech, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. John's of New York, Syracuse and West Virginia are among other prominent independents.

No longer will NYU appear in the score lists. The Violets, once a top independent, dropped the sport after last season.

Monday, Nov. 29 is the first day of the annual two-week antlered deer season and hundreds of proud hunters will be returning from the woodlands anxious to show the results of their prowess.

Jurgens was injured in the second period when tackled after a 10-yard advance. That set up a 40-yard field goal by Knight which gave the Redskins a 3-0 lead.

Knight also kicked a 14-yard field goal, his 23rd and a Washington club record. The old Redskins' record was 22 by Charlie Gogolak.

For the half ended, Kilmer directed the 'Skins 50 yards on three plays for a touchdown.

In the third period, the Eagles moved 82 yards for a touchdown that cut the margin to 13-6. Rookie Tom Bailey scored from the one.

Washington completed its scoring in the fourth quarter when cornerback Mike Bass intercepted a Philadelphia pass and returned 38 yards for the touchdown.

The Eagles scored again with 40 seconds remaining on a one-yard pass from quarterback Pete Liske to Steve Zabel.

"It's hard to say what caused us to lose so many," he continued, "because it's a combination of things from game to game. Games won were well played on both offense and defense, and games lost, were played poorly both offensively and defensively."

Pitt's final game, seen on television in Pittsburgh, was the Panthers last chance to redeem themselves. They had hoped to upset the bowl-bound Seminoles, but, as in seven other games this season, the opponents were just too powerful.

Pitt jumped out to a 7-0 lead with only one minute gone in the first period, when Pittsburgh's Bill Adams intercepted a Seminole pass and ran it back 42 yards for the score.

The only other Pitt tally came in the third period, when senior quarterback Dave Havern tied Pitt's season record with ten TD passes on a 26-yard scoring pass to Steve Moyer.

"I did most of my talking before the game," said DePasqua, "I said it was one of those games when it's the last time to Steve Moyer."

"Let 'em score, let 'em score," chanted the crowd of 37,710. Portable radios at their ears, the fans knew how close Reaves was to the national record.

Upset-Minded Panthers Scalped By Seminoles

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "The group of youngsters we used as a result of this last game grew up a little bit," said Pitt coach Carl DePasqua Sunday, reflecting on his team's 31-13 loss to Florida State Saturday and a 3-8 season.

"It's hard to say what caused us to lose so many," he continued, "because it's a combination of things from game to game. Games won were well played on both offense and defense, and games lost, were played poorly both offensively and defensively."

Florida Takes Dive For Its QB Reaves

Then came "Operation Lay-down."

Florida's defense sprawled purposefully onto the turf, allowing Hurricane quarterback John Reaves the 70 seconds he needed to become college football's all-time passing king.

"It was a disgrace," said outraged Miami Coach Fran Curci, "the worst thing I've ever seen in college football. A pure lack of class."

There was 1:10 on the Orange Bowl clock Saturday night. Florida led 45-8 and the 6-foot-4 Reaves fretted on the sidelines.

He was only 13 yards from the career passing mark of Stanford's Jim Plunkett.

"Let 'em score, let 'em score," chanted the crowd of 37,710. Portable radios at their ears, the fans knew how close Reaves was to the national record.

Namath's TD Flings Almost Upset 49ers

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath made a dramatic and explosive return to Broadway Sunday that would have done justice to the writer of any stage scenario, performing brilliantly for the New York Jets in a 24-21 loss to the San Francisco 49ers.

Shaggy hair flowing beneath his helmet and shoulders drooping in his familiar posture, Namath took over in the second quarter for injured starter Bob Davis and proceeded to connect on 11 of 27 passes for 258 yards and three touchdowns.

Then, in the final minute and a half, he led the Jets to the San Francisco 19—in sight of the winning touchdown or tying field goal—before Johnny Fuller intervened and ruined the potential Hollywood ending by intercepting a pass in the end zone.

"I tried to throw over him," Namath said in the Jets' dressing room afterwards. "But the ball didn't have the zip, even though it was the best pass I had thrown all day."

There was nothing wrong with the other 10 completions, either, as Namath put on an incredible show for a guy who had been sidelined since the fifth game of the 1970 season because of a broken wrist and an exhibition injury that required surgery on his left knee.

But Namath wasn't satisfied.

"I don't feel I played well," Namath said as he sat behind a desk in the Jets' school-room type film viewing area, his dark hair mussed and his body adorned only with the socks on his feet.

"I'm looking forward to next week because no matter how I do I still have to satisfy myself in regard to performance. I've got to improve my mental state because I didn't feel at ease. I said I was ready to play, but you can't ever be sure until you get out there."

"I was just trying to keep as calm as I could," Namath continued. "But you feel pressure from someone and you try to hurry the play even though there is no pressure. Your nerves just get away from you."

Namath's nerves got away from him with 10:33 left in the second quarter when Davis was decked and forced out of the game with a sprained right ankle.

Namath hit Rich Caster on touchdown passes of 57 and 20 yards and connected with Ed Bell on a 22-yarder.

But his first interception led to a Bruce Gossett field goal and Vic Washington and Ken Willard did the rest primarily on the ground, as the 49ers lifted their record to 7-4 for a half-game lead over Los Angeles in the battle for the Western Division title in the National Football Conference.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The New Orleans Saints, behind five field goals by Charlie Durkee and the strong running of Bob Gresham, ruined Bart Starr's season debut and beat the Green Bay Packers 29-21 in a National Football League game Sunday.

Durkee, who flunked a tryout with Green Bay last summer, set a New Orleans record by connecting on field goals of 35, 26, 11, and two of 12 yards.

Starr, activated a week ago after recovering from two shoulder operations, completed eight of 17 passes for 116 yards, but the Packers stopped themselves with four fumbles and two interceptions as their record fell to 3-7-1. New Orleans is 4-5-2.

Starr was relieved in favor of rookie quarterback Scott Hunter in the fourth period with Green Bay trailing 19-14. But Durkee kicked his fifth field goal after the Saints had recovered a Hunter fumble, and New Orleans clinched the game when Doug Wyatt intercepted a Hunter pass and returned it 55 yards for a touchdown.

Hill, who is recovered from a knee injury and making his first start of the regular season, made both scoring catches in the second quarter.

He took an eleven yard pass just over the goal line for the first touchdown. Later, he brought the sports crowd of 27,166 roaring to its feet when he circled behind some defenders, leaped high for a Shaw pass and raced into the end zone on a 47-yard scoring play.

Simpson's eight yard touchdown run early in the fourth quarter put the Bills in front 24-13, a margin the Patriots were unable to overcome despite a New England touchdown late in the game on a twelve yard pass from Jim Plunkett to Ron Sellers.

Soccer style kicker Charlie Gogolak booted two field goals for the Patriots, and Jim Nancy tallied on a one-yard touchdown run for New England in the third period.

John Leybold accounted for the other Bill's scoring, with field goals of 43 and 41 yards.

Just 33 seconds later Bill Collins took a pass from rookie Marcel Dionne and Nick Libett to fire a goal past goalie Ken Dryden of Montreal.

Jacques Lemaire scored for Montreal at 10:13 of the second period but the Red Wings immediately swept down the ice to pull ahead 3-1 on Al Karlander's goal 20 seconds later.

An Orange Bowl sellout crowd of 75,000-plus is assured for the nationally-televised ABC game.

"The Bears have beaten a lot of fine teams," said Miami Coach Don Shula. "Chicago plays tough, hard-hitting football. It's certain to be a physical night."

Miami, 8-1-1, leads the world champion Baltimore Colts in the American Conference East of the National Football League while the Bears, 6-4, are trying to hang on in the National Conference Central.

Among the Chicago victories were a five-pointer against Detroit, one by four versus Dallas, by three against Minnesota, by two against Pittsburgh and by one against Washington.

N.B.A.-A.H.L. Highlights

Three Celts Clip Hawks

BOSTON (AP) — Three Boston players combined for 68 points Sunday night as the Celts easily defeated the Atlanta Hawks 130-108 in a National Basketball Association game.

Jo Jo White scored 25 points, John Havlicek 22 and Dave Cowens 21 as the Celtics took over undisputed possession of first place in the NBA's Atlantic Division, a half-game in front of the idle New York Knicks.

The Celtics, who took a 60-49 halftime advantage, led by 19 points after three quarters with White and Cowens scoring 11 points each in the 36-point third period. Twice in the final session Boston led by as many as 28 points.

Walt Bellamy and Lou Hudson paced the scoring for Atlanta, which is in last place in the Central Division. Don Chaney added 17 for the Celtics and Tom Sanders 12.

Rangers Nip Flyers, 2-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bruce MacGregor's 11th goal of the season at 8:14 of the second period proved the winning margin as the New York Rangers defeated the Philadelphia Flyers before a sellout crowd here Sunday night.

The Rangers appeared on the way to making a rout in the first period, throwing 20 shots at Philadelphia goalie Doug Favell but coming out with only a 2-1 advantage.

Rod Seiling got New York on top with a 12-footer from in front of Favell after taking a perfect pass from Vic Hadfield at 3:52 of the opening period. Then Hadfield notched his 16th goal of the season on a power play at the 9:14 mark.

First Quarter Propels Suns

HOUSTON (AP) — The Phoenix Suns hit on 68 per cent of their field goal attempts in the opening quarter Sunday night, then held on to defeat the Houston Rockets 116-110 in a National Basketball Association game.

Dick Van Arsdale triggered the game in the early going, scoring 12 points as Phoenix leaped out to a 35-19 first quarter lead.

Rookie guard Dennis Layton kept the Rockets at bay in the second half, when he scored 20 of his 25 points.

Layton's 25 paced seven Suns in double figures. Center Neal Walk had 23, Van Arsdale had 14, Otto Moore 12 and Connie Hawkins and Mel Counts 11 each.

Elvin Hayes paced the Rockets, getting 30 points and also pulling down a game-high 113 rebounds. Forward Rudy Tomjanovich was next with 19 points for the Rockets followed by forward Cliff Meely with 18.

Carr's What Cavs Needed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bobby Smith and Dave Sorenson put on a clutch shooting performance in the last six minutes of the game to preserve a lead Austin Carr had built up, as the Cleveland Cavaliers rolled to a 4-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game Sunday night.

The victory moves the Black Hawks to within one point of the idle Minnesota North Stars in the race for first place in the NHL's Western Division.

With Kevin Loughery came off the bench and hit three buckets, triggering a 15-5 Philadelphia spurt that narrowed the Cleveland lead to 103-101.

Then, with the score 106-105, Smith and Sorenson went to work, hitting baskets or converting free throws every time the 76ers drew near.

Smith ripped in 10 points and Sorenson six in the last six minutes.

Wings Overpower Canadiens, 4-2

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit scored a pair of power-play goals 33 seconds apart in the first period Sunday night and went on to beat Montreal, 4-2, in their National Hockey League game, snapping the Canadiens' unbeaten streak at 11.

Detroit captain Alex Delvecchio scored his fifth goal of the season at 6:44 of the opening period on a pass from Guy Charron while Marc Tardif of the Canadiens was in the penalty box for hooking.

Just 33 seconds later Bill Collins took a pass from rookie Marcel Dionne and Nick Libett to fire a goal past goalie Ken Dryden of Montreal.

Jacques Lemaire scored for Montreal at 10:13 of the second period but the Red Wings immediately swept down the ice to pull ahead 3-1 on Al Karlander's goal 20 seconds later.

With Carr pouring in 16 of his NBA high 31 points in the third quarter, the Cavs broke a 65-65 halftime tie and jumped into a

Black Hawks Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Third period goals by Bryan Campbell, Chico Maki and Danny O'Shea lifted the Chicago Black Hawks to a 4-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hockey League game Sunday night.

The victory moves the Black Hawks to within one point of the idle Minnesota North Stars in the race for first place in the NHL's Western Division.

With Carr pouring in 16 of his NBA high 31 points in the third quarter, the Cavs broke a 65-65 halftime tie and jumped into a

Baltimore Shocks Oakland, 37-14

OAKLAND (AP) — The Baltimore defense stifled the Oakland offense—highest scoring unit in the National Football League—with the help of six interceptions Sunday and quarterback Johnny Unitas directed the Colts' offense to three touchdowns in a surprisingly easy 37-14 romp over the Raider.

Safety Rich Volk grabbed two of the Colts' interceptions, including one that set up a Jim O'Brien field goal which gave Baltimore a 30-0 lead in the third period. Three other interceptions led to Baltimore scores.

Wrestling Clinic This Wednesday

There will be a wrestling clinic for Eisenhower wrestling fans this Wednesday evening in the gym of the high school. Coach Tony Ross will explain, demonstrate and answer all questions pertaining to his wrestling team, rule changes and the different scoring on pins, some decisions and predicaments that last longer than five seconds. Time for the clinic is slated to be at 7:30 p.m.

O'Brien kicked three field goals, hitting from 11, 28 and 45 yards. The 11-yarder came after linebacker Mike Curtis intercepted a Lamonica pass.

Earl Morrall took over at quarterback for Unitas in the last period but didn't throw any passes. The Colts' runners netted 210 yards, compared with 65 for Oakland's running game, which rated high in the NFL going into the game.

In the first half, the Raiders had only 19 yards net and one first down offensively. They didn't get past the Colt 30-yard line until the fourth quarter.

Unitas completed all four of his passes, good for 48 yards, as the Colts drove 80 yards for a touchdown after receiving the opening kickoff of the game.

In a 51-yard touchdown drive, which made the score 14-early in the second quarter, Unitas was two-for-two.

Bulaich ripped off the longest running play of the game after Curtis' interception gave the Colts the ball at midfield a few minutes later. The swift fullback went 35 yards on a draw play to set up O'Brien's first field goal.

Unitas also picked the Raiders' defense apart last Jan. 3 as the Colts won 27-17 in the AFC championship game. Sunday's game was the first regular-season meeting of the teams.

Eastern leader Miami, 8-1-1, plays at home Monday night against the Chicago Bears.

Steelers Drop Behind In AFC Central Standings

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Floyd Little turned over the game ball to Jerry Smith, who got his first victory as head coach of the Denver Broncos Sunday after taking over the team last week.

"It was a good victory," said Smith, who could have just as easily given Little a game ball for his performance.

Little scored two touchdowns and picked up 91 yards on 22 carries to lead the Broncos to a 22-

The Role Of Aviation

By Bob Rogge

If you have never given much thought to the economic and recreational values that General Aviation play in your community you will probably be surprised at some of the information herein.

General Aviation is pretty much an all-embracing term for it covers all flying activities outside the military and scheduled commercial airlines. And there is a lot of General Aviation flying these days, for included are all private and corporate pilots, and they outnumber military and commercial pilots by several hundreds of thousands.

You wouldn't guess it from looking up at the sky now and then, but General Aviation plays an important part in not only the business life of this northwest part of the state, it also lays out a considerable sum in flight lessons, gas, oil, hangar fees, maintenance, insurance and so forth. There are several hundred private planes registered in the 12 county area that stretches from Erie County east to Potter County, south to Mercer County and east again to Clearfield County.

(There are about 125,000 private planes registered in the U.S. and in 1970 they flew an estimated 25,000,000 hours.)

Compared to the number of automobiles in the 12 counties, the couple of hundred private planes don't seem to amount to much; but if you consider the average two-place plane costs as much as two medium-priced cars, the figure becomes more meaningful.

In this 12 county section, excluding Forest County, there are no less than 22 airports, ranging from Erie International to Bradford Regional to turf fields such as you can find at Scandia and many other places. Warren, McKean, Cameron and Clearfield Counties each have one airport, the largest being Bradford Regional Airport in McKean County. Cameron County's airport, Keystone Airpark, lies at Emporium and has been undergoing considerable expansion during the past year or two, principally due to its increased use by an up-and-coming electronics firm in that town, Tau Electronics. Clearfield County's Clearview Airport, at Clearfield, carries a GS (General Service) rating by the state bureau of aviation, as does Keystone Airpark. The regional airport at Mt. Alton in McKean County is rated AS by the state for it is served by a scheduled airline as is the Erie International Airport. Warren's Scandia Air Park is rated GS by the bureau.

There are two airports in Potter County, one at Cherry Springs, the other near Coudersport—Potato City Airport, and both are rated GS.

Besides Erie International, Erie County boasts four other airports, leading Venango County with four and Crawford County with three.

Stepping across the border for a moment, we find three airports in New York State at Jamestown, Olean and Wellsville, well within the area covered by General Aviation pilots who operate from the Pennsylvania counties.

Crawford County's three fields are located at Conneaut Lake, Meadville and Titusville, and the Venango County airports are Suplee Memorial Airport at Oil City; Seneca Air Park at Seneca; Chess Laramore at Franklin, with airline service, and Merry's Airport at Linesville.

Elk County's airport is at St. Mary's and is GS rated.

Erie County's airports, excluding Erie International, are the Thermal G. Ranch at Waterford, Lawrence Airport at Corry, Port Allegany Airport at Albion and North East Airport at North East. All are GS rated.

The above list is incomplete, leaving three more fields in Jefferson and Mercer Counties, but it certainly points out the presence of General Aviation in this part of the state alone. According to the state bureau of aviation, there are no less than 553 licensed airports in Pennsylvania. There are only six counties in the state without an airport of any description (excluding privately-owned landing strips which are not generally open to public use except in emergency). They are: Pike, Juniata, Perry, Franklin, Fulton and Forest.

So, if you have never even so much as looked inside an airplane, you stand to benefit in some way, from the airports in itself, plus local taxes paid, and other charges for services and maintenance.

Most of these dollars filter into the local economies one way or another, and take their part in keeping the general economy on a going basis.

There are more privately licensed pilots in this area than ever before, the number currently rests at about 200. Their ages span the years from 16 to well beyond 60, proving that flying is not necessarily a young man's (or woman's) game, but is a sport and recreation open to many persons.

Few private pilots are John D. Rockefellers, though owning an airplane is not inexpensive. The market in used planes is expanding.

A visit to any active airport will give you a good insight into the General Aviation crowd, and you might be pleasantly surprised to discover people with pilot's tickets whom you never thought had stepped into an airplane, let alone flew one.

All of which may be interesting, you say, but what does it mean to me? Well, it means a lot. A respectable percentage of the light weight products manufactured in the area concerned are shipped by air freight, which is money in the bank for local industry and, by the process of assimilation, for you.

Those licensed pilots (and the student pilots, as well), spend a considerable sum each year on flying, which breaks down to jobs and money in the bank for Although not surprising, it's interesting to hear that Bethia Caffey, a reporter for the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Independent, mentioned Warren in her Saturday, Nov. 19, 20 column, highlighting a New Process Company mailing she received.

She mentioned NPC president John L. Blair and "Blair Press" Guaranteed Permanent Press Flannel Slacks. The writer said a whole bunch of material swatches were enclosed from which she was to choose her slacks. As to a request for her to send her measurements airmail, she suggested that would only bewilder NPC cutting machines. The reporter's daughter lives in North East and the former visits northwestern Pennsylvania often. All this information came from a former Warren resident, Mrs. William (Lucille) Moore.

New Tax Hard
On Couples,
When Married

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Congress has unwittingly placed quite a heavy tax burden on married working couples. In fact, the tax law very definitely favors working couples who live together without benefit of matrimony.

Next April 15 there is no increase in taxes ahead for married working couples. In fact, thanks to the end of the surcharge, an increase in the personal exemption and an increase in the standard deduction, taxes generally run a little lower. But the shock comes to working married couples when they look at the tables for unmarried individuals, which Congress wrote into the 1968 tax law.

Congress' aim was to quiet the complaints of single taxpayers who have long protested about the advantages married couples have when they file jointly. In essence, filing jointly pools the couple's income and then for tax purposes divides it in two for the appropriate tax rate. For the typical marriage in which only the husband works, filing jointly is advantageous.

However, Prentice-Hall, the tax publishing company has figured out some of the results of congressional help for single taxpayers.

Take the case of Bert, a young accountant earning $12,000 yearly and his wife Sue who earns $10,000 teaching. If they file a joint return their tax bill comes to about $4,142, assuming they use the standard deduction. If they file separately, the tax would be a little higher—$4,165.

The irritant is that had they remained single with each filing a return, their total tax would be only $3,642, a clear advantage of about $500.

John and Julia, two young attorneys have been considering marriage. Each expects to earn $20,000 this year. Filing as single persons, they will pay $4,450 each or a total of $8,900. If they had been married in 1971, their total tax would be $10,857. The marriage would start out with a "tax loss" of about $1,957.

If one of the two persons planning marriage is a "head of household" with two children the situation is even more dramatic. Take Jim, a widower, who earns $20,000 a year and itemizes deductions of $4,000.

He wants to marry a woman accountant earning $13,000. They find when they figure out their taxes that they will pay about $1,300 more when married than they do now with him filing as head of household and her filing as a single person.

Once Congress liberalizes the tax bill, as it is in the process of doing, "the unfair situation for working married couples" will be even "more serious" according to Prentice-Hall.

It points out that under the proposed new tax law the standard deduction for next year will move up to about 15 per cent of gross income, or a maximum of $2,000. Married persons filing separately have to divide the $2,000 deduction between them.

Not noted for its sense of humor, Prentice-Hall adds, "of course, the working married couples can escape this problem by buying a house or two and itemizing deductions."

While Congress has managed to place a tax hurdle for working couples planning marriage, the Internal Revenue Service has taken down a tax hurdle for some widows.

Many husbands turn over full ownership of life insurance policies to their wives. Tax problems can arise when the husband dies within three years of the gift.

The IRS has a general rule that a gift is in contemplation of death if the donor, even young and healthy, died within three years of the gift. In cases involving life insurance, the IRS, has insisted that the full amount of the policy be included in the donor's estate.

Two State Troopers Shot, Seriously Hurt

WOODBRIDGE, N.J.—Two New Jersey State Troopers were shot and seriously wounded as they questioned three occupants of a sedan registered in South Carolina on the New Jersey Turnpike here Sunday morning.

One of the three alleged gunmen was later shot to death by local policemen after the three had sought to hide in a nearby high school auditorium. Trooper Gary McWhorter, 27, of Cranbury, suffered a bullet wound of the chest. Surgeons at Perth Amboy Hospital said they removed half of the trooper's left lung Sunday afternoon and retrieved the slug. The officer was placed under intensive care and was listed Sunday night as "satisfactory."

The second trooper, George W. Ayers, 28, of Chester, suffered a bullet wound of the spleen. Surgeons at the hospital removed the projectile Sunday afternoon and listed the patient as "serious."

State Police authorities late Sunday reconstructed the events that culminated in the killing of one suspect and the capture of his two alleged accomplices as follows:

At 8:30 a.m. in a light flow of traffic northbound on the turnpike near the point where it intersects the Garden State Parkway, McWhorter, who was patrolling alone, halted a 1965 Ford sedan bearing the South Carolina license plates and carrying three black men.

As the officer questioned the driver, the second trooper, Ayres, also patrolling alone, stopped to ascertain whether the first officer required help.

Lt. Gordon Hector, spokesman for the State Police, said a struggle broke out when the troopers spied a pistol on the floor under the driver's feet and sought to reach it.

The three alleged gunmen, identified as Lonnie Simmons, 21, John Edmunds, 23 and Gary Lamont Owens, 19, all of Columbia, S.C., then apparently fled the scene on foot, taking one of the officers' .38-caliber service revolver with them.

A silent alarm sounded when they broke into the high school. Police responded and in an exchange of gunfire Simmons was killed, officials said. The other two men surrendered.

BUSHEL OF GLASSES FOR LIONS

Robert C. Simonton, governor of Lions District 14F, visited the Youngsville area Lions club on Tuesday to accept a bushel of used eyeglasses, for the organization's sight conservation projects. Chester Wroblewski, left, who is in charge of the local organization's efforts in behalf of the blind, said there were about 250 pairs of spectacles in the consignment turned over to the governor, and the club already has a good start on another bushel. The glasses are taken apart and the lenses are measured, catalogued and prepared for re-assembly. Plastic frames are scrapped, but metal ones are salvaged and sold as scrap and the proceeds go into the fund to provide eye care for the needy.

Two Light Planes Collide Over Brady's Run Park Sunday

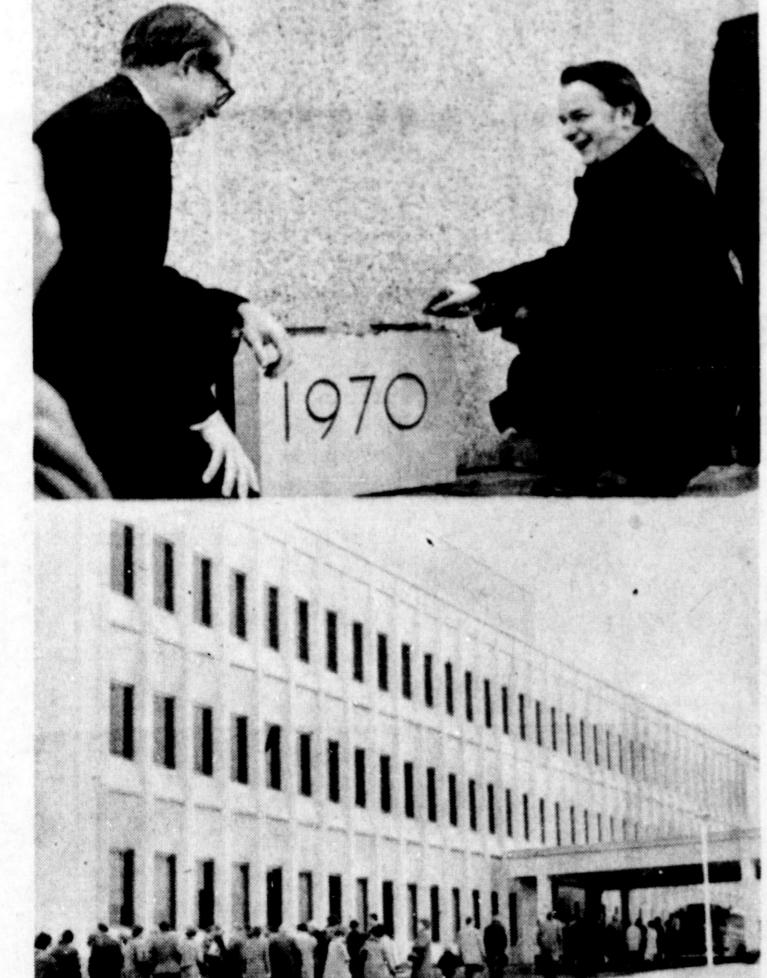

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP) — Two light planes collided over Brady's Run Park Sunday, sending one plummeting into the lake, while the other managed to fly three miles back to Beaver County Airport.

Three persons were believed to be aboard the plane that went into the lake, police said. Rescue crews recovered the bodies of Louis Gache, 69, and Francesco DelTinto, 31, both of Beaver Falls, before calling off the search Sunday evening.

State police said they would resume dragging operations for the body of the pilot, identified by troopers as Gaylord Sheets, of New Brighton, owner of the plane, on Monday morning.

Both crafts had recently taken off on pleasure flights from the airport and were flying in the same direction. Both pilots and the two passengers aboard the second plane were experienced licensed pilots.

The survivor, George Stormfels of Monaca, a teacher at

Annette Gilly Scheduled For Arraignment Monday

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The only one of five defendants in the Yablonski family murders who has not entered a plea to the killings, was scheduled to be arraigned here Monday.

Annette Gilly, of Cleveland, Ohio, was to enter a plea before Washington County Judge Charles C. Sweet.

Mrs. Gilly's husband, Paul, 37, and her father, Silous Huddleston, 57, of LaFollette, Tenn., pleaded innocent last October.

Claude Vealey, 27, of Cleveland, pleaded guilty last June, and Aubran "Buddy" Martin, 23, also of Cleveland, the first of the five defendants to be tried, was convicted of first degree murder, and sentenced to death last month.

The judge deferred Mrs. Gilly's arraignment pending clarification of her legal representation.

Cleveland Atty. Gerald S. Gold had sought to represent both Gilly and Mrs. Gilly and did appear for the husband at his arraignment.

Judge Sweet, however, ruled there could be a possible conflict of interests and said Gold could represent either the husband or the wife, but not both.

Gold wrote the judge that though he took exception to the court's decision, he would abide by its order and elected to represent Gilly in various cases.

Shapp Undecided About Scales As Demo Head

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. Shapp, in a television interview broadcast Sunday, said he has yet to decide whether John Scales should be replaced as state Democratic Party chairman. But Shapp says he has decided Lt. Gov. Ernest P. Kline won't become state chairman in the event Scales does resign.

Shapp and Scales have been reported feuding in the last few months over control of the party patronage, and Shapp is said to have asked Scales to resign.

The governor, however, conceded in Sunday's taped interview only that he and his aides have discussed whether Scales should step down. "We're discussing that among other possibilities," Shapp said.

Shapp said he had weighed recently whether the lieutenant governor should take over the party chairmanship. "Among others, the

Reapportionment Tops Agenda As Solons Return From Recess

HARRISBURG (AP) — Congressional reapportionment is the major item facing the legislature this week as the House and Senate return from a two-week Thanksgiving recess.

The House scheduled a token session for Monday because a number of representatives reportedly wanted to go hunting on the opening day of deer season.

But Senate Majority Leader Thomas F. Lamb, D-Allegheny, said the Senate would get right to work.

"I don't know how many senators want to go deer hunting, but we didn't plan a token session for the Senate," he said.

The reapportionment plan, which is not yet in completed form, will be introduced in the Senate. It must be enacted before Jan. 25 so prospective primary candidates can begin circulating nominating petitions. Legislators want to adjourn sometime next week for the Christmas holidays.

Pennsylvania must lose two of its 27-member congressional delegation because the state's population, according to the 1970 census, increased less than the national average. Indications were that the seat of the late U.S. Rep. James G. Fulton, a Pittsburgh Republican, would be eliminated along with one seat from the Philadelphia area.

Some organization Democrats from Philadelphia had wanted to do away with the district represented by Rep. William J. Green, a Democrat who bucked the organization in the city's mayoral race.

State Rep. Harry A. Englehart Jr., D-Cambria, majority caucus chairman, said the leadership would try to prevent a Democrat's seat from being eliminated.

"If we Democrats control all three branches in the state, we should at least write a decent reapportionment plan for ourselves," Englehart said.

All five congressional seats in Philadelphia are held by Democrats. The city lost population during the last decade.

Another bill entwined in political maneuverings calls for creation of 47 new county judgeships. The measure is in the Senate where Republicans were asking for assurances from Gov. Shapp that GOP judges would be named in areas dominated by that party.

Allentown Girl Crowned 1972 Junior Miss

READING, Pa. (AP) — Carol Ann Williams, the 16-year-old daughter of an Allentown physician, was crowned Pennsylvania's 1972 Junior Miss Saturday night at the annual pageant in the Governor Mifflin High School in suburban Schillington.

The 5-foot-3 blond, a senior at Salisburg High School will represent the state in the national Junior Miss Pageant in Mobile, Ala., next spring.

Miss Williams, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David O. Williams, plans to study medicine and hopes to go to Duke University. She also took top honors in the poise and appearance categories.

The runners up were Kolleen Rosenberger, Souderton; Jocelyn J. Zemte, Johnstown; and Kim E. Stambaugh, York.

The winner received a $2,500 cash scholarship.

for late-year deliveries has been strengthening and heavy bookings for shipments during the first quarter of 1972 are expected to start showing up soon.

"Demand for steel has been slowly recovering since large strike-hedge inventories sent the steel business into a tailspin last August," the magazine said.

"Steel users are said now to be rapidly working down their stockpiles of the material. By the first of the new year they are expected to have these stockpiles pretty well consumed."

Industry Week said, "The hopeful feeling in the steel industry is reflected in raw steel production."

It is estimated the output last week, which included the Thanksgiving holiday, at 1.8 million net tons, compared to 1,866,000 tons the previous week.

"Even mills that aren't happy with current orders are maintaining steady raw steel output to be ready for 1972 demand," the magazine said.

Industry Week's price composite on steelmaking scrap was at $31 a gross ton last week, a drop of 33 cents from the previous week.

Thoughts While Washing Dishes

By JO BETZ
Family Editor

The other night, while up to my elbows in dishwater, I was thinking about how families change over the years.

The big change in our family in the past few years is that we don't have a baby in the house anymore. With my youngest in first grade this year, it seems just a little strange not to have one—or two—babies crawling around on the floor, and upsetting lamps, and all the other cute little things babies do.

The whole atmosphere of the home changes when the kids start growing up, and you know your kids are growing up when:

—you can't find a bottle of baby aspirin in the house.

—the stack of shoes next to the front door is still there, but it takes up more space now.

—you can never find the car keys in the morning.

—they have stopped hitting each other, but you almost wish they hadn't, because all that yelling is driving you up the wall.

—they have decided steak tastes better than hamburger.

—the diaper pail has disappeared from the bathroom—replaced by panty hose hanging from the shower curtain rod.

—instead of "Boy's Life," the mailman is delivering college catalogs.

—no one can reach you by telephone after 3:30 p.m.

—the diaper rash ointment and teething lotion in the bathroom medicine cabinet has been replaced with hair spray and acne medication.

—they can admit gracefully that you've won an argument.

—they can laugh at one of their mistakes as easily as they laugh at one of yours.

—your family's after-dinner schedule on some nights vaguely resembles the outgoing flight schedule at Kennedy Airport.

—the cost of your car insurance takes a dramatic jump—upwards.

—stereo kits have replaced Tinker Toys at the top of the Christmas list.

—you talk to them, and you realize they are actually listening to what you are saying.

—strange new words are coming from their mouths, like "Thank you," and "I appreciate that," and "Let me do it for you."

—you realize that somewhere along the way, you've done something right in their upbringing, in spite of inexperience, attacks of "Cabin fever", and Dr. Spock.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the girl who said her father's snoring was music to her ears because when she heard him snore she knew he was safe at home and his presence always gave her security.

I am surprised you didn't go into a little more detail in your answer. You should have told the girl that not all snoring is offensive—and that her father's snoring must have had a pleasant sound. I have been married four times so I'm something of an authority on the subject. And, to keep this letter completely honest, I confess I've heard some snoring between marriages, too.

From a wealth of experience I can tell you the sound of snoring can be as varied as speaking voices. My first husband had a truly melodic snore—it sort of ran up and down the scale. I loved it. My second husband had a buzz-saw snore with a whistle in it. It drove me crazy. (I think that's why I divorced him.) Husband number three didn't snore, but he talked all night—which was worse. That marriage lasted three months. My present husband has a soft, pleasant snore, sort of like a cat purring. It doesn't bother me at all.

I have asked all my husbands if I snore and they said yes. The only one who disliked my snoring was the third husband whose snoring I loathed. So I think that perhaps whether snoring bothers a mate is in some way related to one's feelings about that person generally. Am I right? —Tallahassee

DEAR TAL: You are right indeed. The whole story is in your second to the last sentence.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Am I losing my mind? Here are the facts: My husband is impossible, yet I pretend to love him. He is cheating on me left and right, yet I pretend everything is just fine. He is a lousy father. I pretend not to notice. He says cruel and insulting things to me in the presence of family and friends. I pretend not to hear. To be perfectly honest, I hate him.

I work but I cannot support myself and our two children on my salary. Must I spend the rest of my life pretending—with a man who turns me off the minute he steps into the house? It is impossible to talk to him. He knows everything. Also, he is a terrible liar. Am I crazy to go on like this? Even the children are aware that he is not like other fathers.

What do you suggest? —Lady MacBeth in Lexington

DEAR LADY: I suggest you separate from this man before you end up at the Funny Farm. See a lawyer and ask him to outline a husband's legal responsibilities, then perhaps you'll be less frightened.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Friday, one of the regular members of our bridge club was sick so I invited a substitute.

Just as I was serving the dessert the substitute shrieked, "MY GOD, A RAT!" She pointed to the baseboard and got up on her chair yelling, "I'm going to faint." It was not rat, Ann, it was a tiny mouse. I was stunned and humiliated. That incident spoiled my day. My husband says she is nuts and to forget it. Do you think she intentionally tried to embarrass me? —Unstrung In Upper Mich.

DEAR UN: The woman probably has a pathological fear of mice and went temporarily bananas. Forget it. Even the best housekeepers has a wee mouse now and then.

St. Joseph's Church Of Warren Is Scene For Cashman-Ericsson Wedding

Kathy Ann Ericsson became the bride of Michael Cashman Saturday, November 27, 1971 in a 2 p.m. ceremony held in St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

The Rev. Father Norman Smith officiated, assisted by the Rev. Richard Baker, pastor of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Francis S. Ericsson, 2 Beatty court, Warren. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William Cashman, 108 West Third avenue, Warren.

Alan Slovencay played traditional wedding music for the ceremony. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums and pompons.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, she was dressed in a wedding gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta in a dirndl silhouette. The molded empire bodice was fashioned with a wedding ring collar. Pearled lace was repeated on the full bishop sleeves and the wide cuffs. The lace and braid also formed a wide border which formed the hem in the softly gathered floor length skirt. A bow secured the chapel length train of the gown.

A Juliet cap with lace and seed pearls secured a long silk illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pompons.

Mrs. Fred Martin, Marcellus, New York, was matron of honor for her sister. Another sister, Mrs. Wayne Cowan, Rochester New York; and Mrs. Fred Edling, Clark, New Jersey were bridesmaids.

The adult attendants were dressed in Gibson-style gowns of navy voile over taffeta with ruffled hem. The bodices of navy and white stripes were designed with narrow ruffled collars and cuffs on the leg-of-mutton sleeves. A grosgrain ribbon circled the waist and tied into a front bow.

The attendants carried cascade bouquets of gold mums and rust pompons accented with royal blue star flowers and violet streamers.

Channing Cowan, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a navy blue voile Gibson style dress, and a head band of flowers. She carried a basket of matching flowers.

Three Easy "Rib" Meals

Ribs of pork, beef and lamb are relatively inexpensive at the market. Although they have quite a large proportion of fat and bone, they usually average out less in cost per pound of edible meat than the more expensive cuts.

They have fine flavor and if trimmed of some of the fat, make wonderful eating. And they are a fun food, particularly enjoyed by the youngsters of the family.

There's a very easy way to prepare them. Simply line the range broiler pan with heavy duty foil, arrange the ribs in the pan and brown lightly under the broiler. Then turn off the broiler and reset thermostat to a lower temperature. Add seasonings and sauce or liquid, cover with a second sheet of foil and place in oven to bake for an hour or more until the meat is tender.

This way, no pan is soiled and the whole cooking operation is very simple. Best of all, the ribs taste great and make a delicious meal for the family. Here are recipes for three easy to prepare "rib" meals.

Chinese Style Pork Ribs

4 to 5 pounds country style pork spareribs
4 cloves garlic
1 tablespoon salt
generous sprinkling of pepper
1 small can pineapple chunks, drained
1 10½ ounce can chicken broth

½ cup soy sauce
½ cup catsup
1 onion diced
Line broiler pan with heavy duty foil. Cut spareribs into serving portions, removing fat that can be trimmed out easily. Place under broiler and brown, turning once. Brush with the soy sauce while browning as this helps give the ribs good color.

Turn off broiler and set oven thermostat at 300 degrees. Remove broiler pan. Crush garlic with the salt, with the tip of a heavy knife and sprinkle over ribs. Add any remaining soy sauce and all other ingredients. Cover with a second sheet of foil, crimping it to the liner foil. Place in oven and bake for 2 hours or until fork tender. Remove foil cover. Remove from oven and tip pan so juices run to the corner. Skim off fat. If a thickened sauce is desired, combine 2 tablespoons corn starch with 1/3 cup sherry or water and stir into the juices. Cover lightly and return to oven for 10 minutes. Stir once during this time. Serve these ribs with rice and a salad for a hearty dinner. Makes 8 servings.

Devilled Short Ribs Of Beef

4 to 5 pounds short ribs, cut in 3 inch lengths
1 medium onion, chopped
1 carrot, diced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 10½ ounce can beef broth
1 cup catsup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons salt
generous grating of pepper

Line the range broiler with heavy duty aluminum foil. Trim the ribs of excess fat where possible. Arrange in pan and brown under broiler lightly, turning once. Add vegetables while meat is browning so they are partially browned. Turn off broiler and reset thermostat for 300 degrees. Remove broiler pan, add remaining ingredients stirring them around to combine. (Save ½ cup broth to use in thickening gravy, if desired.)

Cover food with a second sheet of foil, crimping it to the liner and bake in the oven for 2 hours or until meat is tender.

INEXPENSIVE RIB DISHES

Relatively Inexpensive

Remove pan from oven and remove foil cover. Tip pan so juices run to a corner. Skim excess fat. To thicken gravy, mix 4 tablespoons flour with the reserved broth. Stir into the pan juices and lightly cover. Return to oven for 10 minutes. Stir once during this time so juices are evenly thickened. Serve with buttered noodles and a salad. Makes 8 servings.

Barbecued Lamb Riblets

4 to 5 pounds lamb riblets
salt and pepper
3 cups bottled barbecue sauce
1 green pepper diced
1 rib celery with leaves, chopped
½ cup chopped onion

Line broiler pan with heavy duty foil. Trim riblets of fat that can be easily removed and cut into serving portions. Place under broiler and brown lightly, turning ribs once. Browning

Philomel Club Christmas Music

The Philomel Club will meet at the Woman's Club at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Dec. 1.

Directed by Nora Lydell, the Philomel Chorus will present the ceremony of Carols. A violin trio comprised of Helen Olson, Shirley Yeager and Delphine McFate will play the Pastoral from the Christmas Music in Concerto. Grosso No. 8 by Corelli, and the Pastoral from the Messiah by Handel.

The Chorus will sing the following selections: Little Pine Tree by David DeNoon and Robert Maxwell; Who Was Born by Joseph Roff and Laura Bobrov; Sweet Hay, an old Polish carol by Kozinski, and Winter Wonderland by Dick Smith and Felix Bernard.

With this in mind, Bill Tice's Royal Robes Collection should create a chain reaction of admiring glances from girl watchers everywhere. These designs are affordable, wearable and definitely geared to glamour.

Story Hour

The after school Story Hour for boys and girls in the primary grades will be held at the Warren Public Library, Wednesday, December 1, at 4 p.m.

Featured will be the story, "How Raccoon and Fox Tricked One Another," and the movies, "A Light in the Night" and "Rich Cat, Poor Cat."

All boys and girls in the primary grades are invited to attend.

The neckline is deeply scooped to reveal an attached

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

AK ♠ A9 6 3 ♠ A10 7 5 2 ♠ Q10 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass Pass 1 ♠

Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♠ Dble.

Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Five diamonds. True, this is a minimum opening, facing a partner who passed originally, but you appear to have the cards to make a game a reasonable undertaking.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

A5 ♠ K4 ♠ AQJ10 7 3 ♠ A5 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Five diamonds. Partner apparently has an unbalanced holding that may render three no trump a touchy contract. Even opposite a weak hand we want to reach game, which should be a good shot with his distribution. If he has a good hand he will now be in position to contract for a slam.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

AQ 6 4 ♠ A10 8 3 2 ♠ Q3 ♠ A10 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

4 ♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid?

A—Pass. A double at this high level, the still optional is primarily for penalties. If partner has the right hand you may miss a slam, but with an almost certain trump trick in your hand you will probably defeat the bidder enough to compensate for what you could have scored.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AQJ10 9 3 ♠ A8 6 4 ♠ 7

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Three hearts. This hand is worth at least one more aggressive move. If partner holds the right hand with a singleton heart or king and one, there is a probable slam. If he fails to take any constructive action you still have time for the modest project of game.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

A4 3 ♠ J7 6 3 ♠ AQ10 ♠ AKQJ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Your club opening followed by the jump raise in hearts has no doubt given partner the impression of an unbalanced hand. A bid of three no trump now is the best way to indicate your true distribution. If his heart suit is somewhat shaky the no trump contract will prove superior.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

A10 5 4 3 ♠ J10 8 7 3 ♠ K10 3 ♠ 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♠ Dble. 3 ♠ Pass

Pass Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four hearts. Partner by repeating his takeout double at a much higher level has promised a very good hand since he might be forcing you to bid with a bust. You actually have substantial values and bid of just three hearts will almost surely be passed out.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, you are South with a 70 part score and hold:

A10 ♠ K8 4 3 ♠ AJ7 2 ♠ AK6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

3 ♠ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid?

A—Pass. The opponents may be talking you out of getting vulnerable, but it would be injurious to take offensive action at this point. Bidding four card suits at this level is not recommended and, if you double, partner is most likely to take you out in spades, a somewhat unpromising prospect.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

AK 5 ♠ AK 6 4 ♠ A9 4 ♠ Q10 6 7 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 3 ♠ 3 ♠ Pass

Pass Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four hearts. This can should allow for almost all possibilities. Partner may have some four card heart holding which he might be reluctant to show at this high level. If he returns to four spades you may rest content and, if his free bid is based on a very strong hand so that he is induced to go slaming, you have sufficient excess values to support such action.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1971

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)—Avoid a tendency to rush things through if there is much on the docket. Heed warnings and you can save much redoing. Shun useless disputes, but DO discuss calmly.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)—A different tack may be the trick you need now. See all sides of a project or discussion, and do not permit pleasure to supersede duties.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—You should enjoy a lively feeling of usefulness and progressiveness now. Keep eyes on target and don't be sidetracked to your disadvantage.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Some discord in work matters possible. But normally you can hold to an even keel, keep your affairs in order, and your talents directed toward winning top returns. Do all this now.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)—Apply the brakes if you sense that you are overreaching, overshooting the mark. It is a handicap to follow set pattern at all times. Observe changes that call for adjustments.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)—There is no limit to progress, once your mind is attuned to it, and abilities used to their fullest. Here is surely a day for it! Emphasize your versatility.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—Not everything may run as anticipated, but you have the talent for prudent pushing and also waiting out returns. Be careful on journeys, in business transactions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)—Adhere to rules and regulations and follow them conscientiously. This is day's rigid dictum. If you do, you will have easy going.

By Frances Drake

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)—Jupiter influences generous. You can make this day stand out by adding a touch of originality to your work and through more exhaustive study of fine points.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You will have numerous ways to achieve in top manner, and MANNER is the key word. However, there's need for better perspective, and for straightening out the order of things.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Correct errors and flaws in your program as soon as you note them. You are keen, so they won't be hard to detect. Don't be over-cautious and lose vantage points, however.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—The earlier you begin, the sooner you will attain. Take time between regular activities to get other ventures planned. An all-around good day!

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind, extreme versatility and lofty ambitions—toward which you work determinedly and unflinchingly. You should have—and probably need—two outlets for your talents: If you choose business as a career, cultivate art as a hobby, and vice versa. You may be attracted to public life and, if so, could succeed as a statesman, diplomat, head of an institution or as an entertainer. You are a person of high ideals, with built-in magnetism and a strong feeling for the artistic; have a delightful sense of humor, too. Birthdate of: Louisa May Alcott, author; A. Bronson Alcott, educator, philosopher.

Teacher To Lecture On Grandin Opera House

Frank B. Acklin, drama teacher at Youngsville High School, will revive the nostalgia of live theater in the late 1800's on Wednesday, December 1st at 8:00 p.m. in the Jefferson School Auditorium. His topic will be the Grandin Opera House in Tidioute.

The building, built by William J. and John L. Grandin in 1872, is a three-story structure with offices on the first two floors and the theater, a gem in the 1800's, on the third floor.

Miss Anna Grandin, well-known Warren resident, is the daughter of William J. Grandin, builder of the opera house and apparently the "stage-struck" member of the family.

It was unique—not only for presenting live theater in Tidioute in 1872—but also because it had dressing rooms,

The lecture on Wednesday sponsored by the Historical Society, is open to the public.

Rex Chainbelt

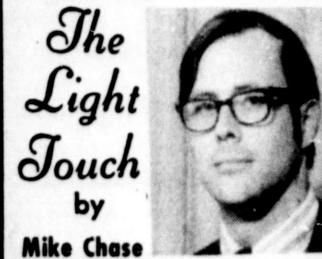

Earnings Up

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Rex Chainbelt Inc., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, reports record sales of $339,073,000 and earnings of $11,504,000 for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1971. Primary income per common share from operations of $2.58 compares with $2.75 per common share in 1970. Primary net income per common share, after a net charge of four cents per share for extraordinary items, was $2.54.

Sales for 1971 were 4½ percent ahead of 1970 sales of $324,484,000. Net income for 1971 was down 6.4 percent from net income a year ago of $12,289,000.

Commenting on the year end figures, W.C. Messinger, chairman, and R.V. Krikorian, president, said: "Profits during the second, third and fourth quarters of 1971 were higher than for the comparable periods in 1970. However, the excess was not sufficient to offset the 38 cents earnings decline of the first quarter, but did reduce it by about one-half."

In 1971, for the first time, the company consolidated results of all major foreign subsidiaries. Results for 1970 have been restated on a comparable basis. The operations of foreign subsidiaries not previously consolidated accounted for sales in 1971 and 1970 of $31,646,000 and $24,283,000, respectively.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Buying Stocks Now

By SYLVIA PORTER

Let's say you have just been placed in charge of your company's $10 million profit-sharing plan. The retiring manager had switched the entire fund to short-term U.S. Treasury obligations and similar high-cut-grade securities in 1969—a superb policy earning an average 6% to 7 per cent and protecting the principal from the erosion in stock prices. But now your fellow workers are fidgeting and want more action. You're in charge.

In quest of professional help, you are having a business luncheon meeting with Frederick Frank, managing director in charge of research for Lehman Bros., Inc., and Robert A. McCabe, also a partner of the world famous, prestigious investment banking firm. Both men are in their late 30s.

YOU: What should I do with the $10 million?

FRANK: Put 90 per cent in common stocks. Now.

YOU: In this confusion? 90 per cent? Why?

FRANK: Because the inherent strength of underlying economic forces in the U.S. supports the current level of stock prices as very reasonable by most standards. And because we think that, in coming months, a much more constructive attitude will develop about our economic expansion, how long the expansion will last and to what degree corporate profits will respond.

McCABE: Because a new interval of relative prosperity will be widespread in 1972. The recessionary forces in several European countries will mar the U.S. prosperity only modestly. Our general advice is to be fully invested in stocks.

YOU: The cross-currents are so hard to understand. I can't help feeling anxious and unsure—particularly since price-incomes policies have failed sooner or later in every Atlantic country which has tried them in the past 30 years. And after the policies have become ineffective, wages and prices have soared.

FRANK: Phase II controls should help modify inflationary psychology in the U.S.—an absolute essential if we are to move back toward price stability. Of course, this will take time, but while this is occurring, the basic economic forces at work in our economy should be lessening the force of inflation itself.

YOU: But even though 1972 may be a year of impressive economic recovery in the U.S., will corporate profits recover as impressively too?

McCABE: Our new estimates on corporate profits say yes.

We place the rise in pre-tax corporate profits from 1971 to 1972 at 15½ per cent to a total of $84 billion and the rise in after-tax corporate profits at 19 per cent to a total of $56 billion. We also see the gross national product up more than 9 per cent with consumer prices up about 3 per cent.

FRANK: The depreciation charge against earnings will be at record levels so that cash-flow totals will be equally impressive—with favorable implications for improved balance sheets and lesser reliance on borrowing in the open market.

Very important, too, is that many corporations continue committed to curb labor costs.

YOU: But what about the international monetary system? That's in chaos now!

FRANK: A solution is so necessary that we are convinced a workable new system will be designed in coming months and it will finance growing trade among all nations.

McCABE: We can't document this optimism, admittedly, but the alternative to agreement is a prolonged period of world deflation. That's even more politically unacceptable to any of the leading countries than compromise and agreement.

YOU: If I give you the $10 million to invest, what sort of stocks will you put it into?

FRANK and McCabe:

Companies in consumer related fields, such as retail chains, consumer services, consumer finance, consumer marketing research; money sensitive companies, such as real estate investments trusts; companies which may be favorably affected by government decisions, such as drugs, hospital management, dental insurance, health; the energy groups, such as oil and natural resources; smaller growth companies, with sales of $200 million or under and with outstanding, distinguishing features.

YOU: What will break today's depressed psychology?

FRANK: The unknown will happen.

YOU: And?

FRANK: The unknown will be favorable.

SHOPPER'S GUIDE TO CAR INSURANCE

Another Consumer Special Is In The Works

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's insurance commissioner, who splashes regularly into the headlines with such things as his no-fault car insurance and shopper's guide to hospitals, has another consumer special in the works.

It's a shopper's guide to car insurance, expected to roll off a rather nondescript press in the Insurance Department in a couple of months.

The advance publicity man is the commissioner himself, Herbert S. Denenberg.

"People don't realize it but car insurance premiums vary from company to company, he said.

A few weeks ago, Denenberg and his staff began turning out about 700 consumer guides which compare 101 hospitals in the Philadelphia area. Such items as average daily charges, costs paid by Blue Cross, bed capacity, percentage of bed occupancy and the average length of patient stay.

Secretaries and other insurance personnel were pressed into the printing service. The press was an office duplication machine. The finished product — a stapled, slender pamphlet of 8 x 10-inch sheets — cost about 12 cents to compile and "publish."

A short while after the first press run, Denenberg ordered Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania, which has 96 participating hospitals in 29 counties, to compile a guide of its own.

Neither the hospital guide nor the car insurance guide of the Insurance Department is the final word to such type of work, Denenberg said. There's a lot of room for improvement and the goal is to get the insurance industry "started," he added.

The idea seems to have caught on. About 200 letters, mostly from consumers, have come into Denenberg's office. Most asked for copies of the hospital guides and praised the department for the idea.

The insurance industry is hardly as enthusiastic.

William Ford, president of Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania, said his people "are studying the situation on what can be constructive in the way of a guide. But it will take some time. It can't be done overnight."

He indicated that Denenberg's guide was rather limited in that it highlighted costs. "Costs aren't the whole story," Ford said, adding that services of a particular hospital have to be considered more.

"We'll try to do something in depth," Ford said. "The question is whether you can do it without spending a fortune."

Denenberg, who believes that many hospitals build monuments to themselves at the subscriber's expense, thinks it can be done — without spending a fortune."

Denenberg, who believes that many hospitals build monuments to themselves at the subscriber's expense, thinks it can be done — without spending a fortune.

Denenberg, no stranger to the press, is many things to many people.

Some accuse him of being merely a publicity seeker. Others see him as the Ralph Nader of insurance. Still others as a college pro turned bureaucrat who felt his ideas were largely wasted within the confines of a classroom.

Whatever, Denenberg knows insurance. Puerto Rico's no-fault insurance plan is his creation. His shopper's guides are innovations in the insurance world.

"We think you're doing a great job; sorry there are not more like you and Nader," wrote one Pennsylvanian in asking Denenberg for a hospital guide.

"I commend you for your initiative and foresight in the preparation of this booklet," wrote another, a native of Los Angeles, Calif.

"I have followed your tenucious efforts to instill some social responsibility into the health insurance industry — And the hospital mandarins... You have taken a very provocative first step in that direction — the first in the country, I believe," wrote a professor at Yale University's School of Medicine.

Others were critical of the pamphlet.

"Although not stated explicitly, the shopping guide suggests that the difference between costs and charges represent a form of immoral gouging and, further, that the variation among the hospitals identifies the efficiently-run organizations and those without public conscience," wrote an official of one medical school in Pennsylvania.

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Santa's Best Friend!

If you give up cigarettes, you might gain a few pounds.

(And also a few years.)

The plain, unfiltered fact is that people who smoke cigarettes get lung cancer a lot more frequently than nonsmokers.

And lung cancer can finish you.

Before your time.

We'd rather have you stay alive and in good health.

Because even if you do gain a few pounds, you'll have the time to take them off.
